VICE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I am afraid this is going to be a short Vice President's message but then again diamonds are not as big as bricks, so quality will count :-)

The weather on Monday night was atrocious and I was surprised that the meeting room in Limones was not flooded, luckily it was not, and we managed to "snuggle up" for pre dinner drinks in the meeting room before commencing. Thank you to those members who braved the elements and attended, which were far more than I would have expected.

AG Kenn Williams joined us to introduce himself and update us on the District and, of course we had Dr. Barney Clarkson as our guest speaker for the evening.

While listening to Capital Radio on Monday afternoon, I was pleasantly surprised to hear a community announcement concerning RCA and The Bicton Men's Shed blanket appeal. It was very well presented with the catch phrase of "ordinary people doing extraordinary things" with reference to RCA being repeated. Well done, Ian.

The gremlins attacked the power point presentation of our guest speaker for two weeks in a row, I don't know how Colin can dig so deep into his audio/visual knowledge to pull the rabbit out of the hat and fix the problem.

Congratulations to our guest speaker for winning the door prize; it's surprising how often this happens, but never mind, it's a simple gift to those who give us their time for free. Jim was gracious in offering to donate half of his Joker winnings to the Club, pity he did not win, but does that mean he shares the bottle of wine?

Yours in Rotary

LESSONS

in

LEADERSHIP

By Jessie Harman

Rotary International Director, 2021-23

As you take on a leadership role within your club, I'd like to share that same advice with you. None of it is rocket science, yet it is the key to having a successful experience. So, as you enter this new Rotary year, keep the following in mind:

- Be strategic and make a plan. Share the 'why' as well as the 'what' and take others with you as you go.
- Surround yourself with capable people. Give them a job to do then let them do it.
- Be humble. Rotarians donate their time, treasure and talent, and they deserve your support. Build a culture of appreciation in your club.
- Be positive and optimistic. Rotarians in your clubs will look to you to set the tone.
- Be fascinated, not frustrated! Seek first to understand the 'why?' behind the objections.
- Keep one eye on the present, but the other firmly on the future. Your role is to build a stronger Rotary for all.
- Don't let the thought of leadership overwhelm you. You don't need to achieve everything in just one year. Think of leadership as a marathon, not a sprint, and yourself as a strong link in an even stronger chain.

In the wake of the pandemic, I would add one more – be kind. Now is not the time to pick battles or keep score – instead, be generous and understand that people contribute at different levels and in different ways.

Leadership in Rotary is both a wonderful opportunity and a tremendous privilege. As you look to the year ahead, commit to bringing your best self to leadership; take the learning opportunities as they arise and empower and support all your members to make a real and positive difference in Rotary and the community.
